

Painting Descriptions:

08-02-02, 1+2, Red 327+328

The woman from Bergen in a red-chequered suit was found during autumn 1999. She was strolling slowly, with arms crossed in front. She is reinstated into the flower pot, comprised mainly of heathers, outside the entrance of the hotel, early in February 2002.

17-02-02, 3+4, Green 151+165

Elderly woman from Bergen, found in the autumn of 1999, walking energetically towards the right, dressed in a fair overcoat and a red handbag. She is reinstated in a rhododendron at Stabekk, February 2002. No longer a plant in full blossom with its characteristic green leaves.

19-02-02, 5+6, Blue 27+28

Woman found in New York in February 2000, dressed for winter, her face basking in sun. Whether it is the peering at the sun or the general state of mind that gives the impression of worry, anxiety or misfit, I do not know. She is placed in a leafless tree in February 2002. With no contact with the ground from being stuck in one of the branches, her helpless expression seems even stronger.

25-02-02, 7+8, Yellow 41+61

Middle-aged man staring to the ground, perhaps on his way home from work. Found moving leftwards in Bergen in 1999. He is placed in an old Christmas sheaf at Stabekk, February 2002.

01-03-02, 9+10, Yellow 217+231

Male tourist with heavy-looking red backpack, found late summer in Bergen 2000. Certain details on the equipment he was carrying could suggest that he was, although in leisure wear, a man well off. He is reinstated in a flower cruet stand with orange roses, in which he is climbing and mounting a thorny stem during a day in February 2002.

01-03-02, 11+12, Green 153+167

This specimen was found in Oslo during October 2000. I shot the elderly man with the weary expression in Hegdehaugsveien, at a point where he was crossing the street carrying a Dole banana box. Either it contained items from a vanful of furniture, or just groceries for the weekend. It was a rainy day, and all the specimens found on this day displayed some influence from the saddening weather. He is reinstated in March 2002 in a rather contrasting environment. He is now looking for a nesting place in a pine, with broad sunlight and a perfectly azure sky and in the background.

19-03-02, 13+14, Green 179+193

The smartly dressed elderly gentleman was found during autumn 1999 in Bergen. The grey suit, with draping in the lining, and the dandy pose, gave him a rather caricature expression. Either he looked worried or dissatisfied. He might have been on his way to a friends funeral, or maybe the expression was simply a dissatisfaction from the grey day and perhaps the umbrella left at home. He is now reinstated in a thick shrub at Stabekk during March 2002.

07-04-02, 15+16, Red 270+271

(Just arrived in Oslo after a journey to California, San Francisco, where I have been collecting new material.) The figure was found during a morning in February in New York. She was in a hurry and was carrying a large plastic bag from a chain-store. A relatively young lady, possibly a student. She is now attached to a set of orange shrubs, in which she has a jungle of thorns to fight through, in February 2002 in Bærum.

24-04-02, 17+18, Blue

86+87

The elderly woman in a strong headwind was found in Bergen during autumn 1999. She was sticking holding one hand to her beige hat to keep it from ending up in Vågen. In her right hand, she had a letter that seemingly was important to get posted the same day. Perhaps for the birthday of one of her grandchildren? She is placed out in the desert ice, snow covering her ankles in a landscape that seems impassable. The relocation was done in a small speck of snow outside the hotel in February 2002.

24-04-02, 19+20, Yellow

155+169

Businessman in his thirties with important documents under his arm, found in New York in January 2000. He was in the act of unlocking his yap car. Without context, his pose might resemble a billy goat or a beggar. He is placed on outdoor steps in stone fronting the archways of Stanford University in California, March 2002.

24-04-02, 21+22, Blue

132+133

This young man from the cafeteria was found outside the hotel in February 2002. He was the first specimen actually from the staff at Olavsgaard Hotel. It was also the first situation in which the depicted became concious of the camera being there. It did something to his expression. He was reinstated in April 2002, by the pool of another housing -Holiday Inn -in the Mojave desert in California.

28-04-02, 23+24, Green

96+116

Women with beige coat and blue, wheeled suitcase, found rushing off during a cold and grumpy morning at Gardermoen in February. Presumably she was heading towards a warmer neighbourhood. She is placed in a palm in 36 degrees Celsius, on a background of fair, azure skies, reinstated on the way from Los Angeles to San Francisco, in the Mojave desert, April 2002.

27-05-02, 25+26,Blue

109+110

Chambermaid dressed in the "old" uniform of the hotel, deep red vest with accompanying blue and black skirt. She was walking determined towards the main entrance in February 2002. She is installed on the dashboard of a car on its way to Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco, March 2002.

27-05-02, 27+28, Red

234+235

The young girl was found during a frosty and clear winter day in Brooklyn, New York 2000. She was carrying a black handbag, the sun creating beautiful patterns in her light blue coat. She is now reinstated in far more thermal conditions, in the desert of California in March 2002. The red ground was vibrating from heat, and in the background one could see endless trains without passengers, as well as lorries rushing through the city of Mojave.

27-05-02, 29+30, Yellow

106+126

Elderly man at a leisurely pace, hands on his back. Found in Oslo in the spring of 1999. Perhaps he was just a tourist dressed in his leisure wear, yellow shirt and fair trousers. He was then fronting the characteristic yellow clock tower by Stanford University. Now he is standing on a wall and contemplating the rather empty square. It is weekend and holiday, most of the students must have gone away on vacation.

25-06-02, 31+32, Blue

69+70

The man, most likely on his way to a conference, was found outside the hotel. Blue suit and briefcase in hand, he was hastening towards the parking lot, squinting at the sun. He is inserted into a beautiful and exotic violet flower next to a lookout over the Golden Gate Bridge, with the city in the distance, spring 2002.

25-06-02, 33+34, Red 320+321

SAS-representative in flashy yellow jacket with reflectors, found at Gardermoen in February 2002. Obviously he was in a hurry. There was bound to be delays and interruptions on a morning as foggy and sleety such as this. He is now reinstated in between conifer cones by the levyne of Foster City, California, March 2002.

25-06-02, 35+36, Green 134+148

Employee at the restaurant, found smiling outside the hotel with a slight wind in her skirts, February 2002. She is placed out in a palm with red prickles in the hot city of Mojave, California 2002.

25-06-02, 37+38, Yellow 325+345

The woman at the sea front was found on Venice Beach in Los Angeles, April 2002. She was giving away free samples of popcorn. She is reinstated into the summer flowerbed by the main entrance of the hotel an early day of June in 2002.

25-06-02, 39+40, Green 207+221

Asian man found in Chinatown in San Francisco March 2002. He was weighting two different wares in one of the many shops along the crowded street. He is now set in a walk up along the face of the sculpture of Olav overlooking the square of the Olavsgaard main entrance.

25-06-02, 41+42, Red 232+233

Young boy in blue Hawaii shirt found on a lookout over San Francisco March 2002. Below, one could behold the windy road going uphill. The boy was leaning over the banister, taking rapid snapshots with a small compact camera. He is placed out on a pine branch in June 2002, with the Olavsgaard being his new motif.

04-07-02, 43+44, Green 302+322

The little girl in a pink outfit and straw hat was found in Los Angeles, Easter 2002. She was outside one of the many missions in the area. Due to holidays, there was a long queue and waiting time for the service inside, rather to the liking of the playful girl, as it might seem. She is placed within the ivy covering the sunny wall of the hotel, a day in June 2002.

04-07-02, 45+46, Red 312+313

An imitation of Crocodile Dundee found at Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood, Spring 2002. He was walking next to Superman, posing by the Chinese Theater. He is now reinstated among large pink roses in front of the hotel in June same year.

04-07-02, 47+48, Blue 94+95

Elderly Asian woman in dress, supporting herself with a cane, found in the outskirts of Chinatown, San Francisco, in March 2002. She was one of the objects that became aware of being photographed, and she put on a somewhat threatening face. She was depicted against the sun and thus became rather dark. She is reinstated in the ornamental shrubs in front of the statue of Olav in the roundabout right outside the entrance to the hotel. The monumental figure and stern expression of the statue makes her appearance somewhat less importunate.

23-07-02, 49+50, Red 350+351

Woman with red hair and rucksack found in San Francisco in March 2002. She was walking hard while engaging herself in a violent discussion with a lady friend in a pink jacket that was way too big for her. She is now reinstated in one of the outer window frames of the hotel's ground floor, June 2002.

23-07-02, 51+52, Blue 130+131

Bald man wearing brown leather jacket and sunglasses, found while lost in a solemn stroll with hands in his pocket at the Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco, March 2002. His appearance might resemble that of a biker with less interest in the law. This Sunday, however, he had forsaken his biker community to make a hike on foot with his family. He is reinstated among dark lilac pansies in the bed of flowers outside the hotel entrance in May 2002.

23-07-02, 53+54, Yellow 230+350

Little girl in a flower-speckled dress and straw hat with a pink ribbon, found near a mission in LA, March 2002. She is dressed for festival and for summer. She was running down the stairs with two similarly dressed girls, probably sisters or cousins, and had to keep a hand on her hat to keep it from blowing off. She is placed in the small orange flowers (actually resembling the flowers on her dress) by the entrance of the hotel, June 2002.

08-08-02, 55+56, Red 293+294

A wanderer in a dialogue with another, rather haggard, homeless person, found in the busy streets of San Francisco, March 2002. He was wearing a poncho, originally white, yet now close to grey, and with a bluish pattern. He was carrying a bag and walking with a cane or a walking stick. He is now reinstated between the paving bricks with the hotel in the background in June 2002.

08-08-02, 57+58, Yellow 161+175

Eccentric entertainer found at the esplanade of Venice Beach, Spring 2002. He was a middle-aged man equipped with Rollerblades, white turban and electric guitar. He is obviously a frequent visitor along the beach promenade, as I can remember him from the last time I was at the same spot, thirteen years ago. He is placed among the buttercups at the back the hotel, some distance down towards the quay and the water, in June 2002.

08-08-02, 59+60, Green 190+204

Elderly man with slight dandy outfit, found on a bar stool at the airport of Amsterdam, Easter 2002. He wore white shoes and was drinking beer with two mates. He is reinstated June the same year, at the edge of the field covering the back of the hotel. He is swinging on a green blade of grass.

22-10-02, 61+62, Green 239+259

(The first pictures painted at my new residence in Kreuzberg, Berlin) The women found in LA during Easter 2002 was smilingly entering the church wearing sunglasses and a flowered skirt. She is reinstated in a rose bush without roses, with the back side of the hotel in the horizon, on an early morning of June 2002.

22-10-02, 63+64, Yellow 249+269

Small girl found in LA during Easter 2002. She was on her knees, supporting herself with her hands on the edge of a fountain. She was lost in thoughts, eyes fixed on the water. Perhaps she had just thrown down a coin and was now pondering on what would be the best wish. She is placed next to the water behind Olavsgaard in June the same year, thus still staring into the water. The mortar edge is now exchanged with buttercups.

22-10-02, 65+66, Blue 18+19
Woman outside a mission in LA, found on her way into a service in March 2002. She was in a hurry, and frozen in a rather contorted posture. She wore a golden cross around her neck that flashed in the sun. She is reinstated on the mouldering quay next to the water behind the hotel in July 2002. The background setting is the highway where one hastens either towards Trondheim or Oslo.

22-10-02, 67+68, Yellow 268+288
Man in an efficient pace, found outside the hotel in March 2002. His working trousers and determined look made him appear to be working at the site. He is the first relocated specimen in Berlin. He was standing on one of the yellow boxes placed in front of every pedestrian crossing. In the background, Siegessaule, the goddess of victory, is looming in the middle of Tiergarten. He was reinstated in September 2002.

22-10-02, 69+70, Red 316+317
Young man in very bright winter lighting, wearing earphones and rucksack, found in New York, February 2000. He is relocated among the number of stars that form the inlaid pavement at Sunset Boulevard, Wall of Fame, in Hollywood. He is placed upon Whoopie Goldberg's star in March 2002.

22-10-02, 71+72, Blue 75+76
Concerned young girl, found while waiting for the airport bus in Bergen centre, Autumn 1999. She had a large wheeled suitcase placed in front. She is reinserted on the edge of the swimming pool that belongs to the inhabitants of Galley Lane, Foster City in California in April 2002.

24-11-02, 73+74, Red 274+275
Woman found at Gardermoen, February 2002. She was wheeling a carriage overloaded with baggage, and a carrying device for her child mounted to her stomach. She is reinserted among incredibly richly coloured transparent and red shrubs that form part of the park grounds along the edge of the swimming pool in Galley Lane in Foster City, California. She is set out in March 2002.

25-11-02, 75+76, Blue 128+129
This small specimen was found in Chinatown in San Francisco, April 2002. She was walking full of purpose, and with a stern look upon her face. She wore sunglasses, but gave the impression of preferring less sunny days. She is reinstated into the summer flowerbed by the main entrance of the Olavsgaard hotel, in a section of bluish and lilac June blossoms.

25-11-02, 77+78, Green 149+163
The young mother with her daughter in a trolley was found in San Francisco, March 2002. This is the first piece composed of more than one figure. The little girl was pointing enthusiastically towards the right, whereas the mother displayed little interest in their surroundings. The specimen is placed among the plants that wind up the walls of the hotel in June 2002, throwing solid shadows on the pink wall.

25-11-02, 79+80, Yellow 172+186
Man dressed in dark and with a beard, found outside the entrance of the hotel, engaged in a lively conversation with another man in March 2002. He was maybe working as a driver, either for the hotel or for someone living there. He is reinserted in yellow rose-looking flowers in Golden Gate

Park, next to the Japanese Garden and the Aquarium. It was a Sunday morning in April 2002, and the park was already crowded by curious weekend tourists.

25-11-02, 81+82, Green 196+210

The elderly woman with silvery hair and fair blue, long quilted anorak was originally found in Bergen during autumn 1999. She was looking in wonder and curiosity towards something just above the height of her eyes, perhaps a window exposition, and she was smiling faintly. She is reinserted in the Botanical Garden of Golden Gate Park in April 2002, in a fair orchid, deeply set, as if being swallowed by it.

25-11-02, 83+84, Yellow 83+103

This man was originally found in New York in February 2000. He was carrying a bag reading "I love N. Y.", yet one could barely see the N sticking out from behind the long black coat. An elegant elderly man, the red scarf being the only display of colour in his outfit. He was standing on the sidewalk, waiting, perhaps to cross the road, or for a wife still shopping within the shop. He is reinstated somewhere else in the USA, two years later, in April 2002. He is standing on the banister, right across the street of Chinese Theater in Hollywood. In the background you can see, besides strolling and picture-taking tourists, Spiderman and Superman distributing flyers for their arrangements.

09-12-02, 85+86, Blue 52+53

The girl working at the Olavsgaard was found in March 2002, where she was crossing the terrace outside the cafeteria accompanied by a colleague. Shadows thrown from the fences in front of the roses formed dancing light figures on her uniform. She is reinstated in Berlin, September 2002. Attached to a lamp post in the roundabout by SiegestraÙe. In the background, one could behold the increasing rush hour traffic through a faintly autumnal Tiergarten. Far behind, one can also see the television mast at Alexanderplatz, the landmark that rumour says you can see from wherever you choose to stay in Berlin.

09-12-02, 87+88, Blue 23+24

Man seen outside the church on Good Friday in 2002 in Los Angeles. Originally, he was seated with some friends or male family members by the foot of a fountain. Reluctantly, he was shot while standing up to enter the crowded church. He is placed upon the quay below the hotel in May 2002. Here, you can only hear the sound of water chuckling beneath the wood, and the faint sound of the highway.

09-12-02, 89+90, Yellow 228+248

Employee at the restaurant of the hotel, found peering at the sun and smiling outside the hotel in March 2002. He is reinstated in the park outside the familiar line of houses in San Francisco in April 2002. The skyscraper settlement in the distance, with the characteristic houses in the foreground, is a popular viewpoint and motif for tourists taking a photo.

09-12-02, 91+92, Red 253+254

Elderly woman with grey hair wearing a lilac quilted coat from the 80s, in mint green and black patterns, found in the streets of Oslo during winter 1998. She is placed upon a red apple while enjoying the view of Michaels kirchplatz near Bethanien in Kreuzberg, Berlin, on a warm and sunny day in December 2002.

30-01-03, 93+94, Yellow 211+225

(Painted at Stabekk, in connection with a stay in Norway.) The woman on the bicycle was found while she was waiting to cross the heavily populated Kottbusser Damm in Berlin, in December

2002. She had a bouquet of flowers made in wood placed in a basket on the bike, probably purchased on the market or brought to be sold there. It was on a Tuesday, and it was a Turkish market along the channel, in nice weather for a change. She is reinstated in a plant in Palmehuset at Tøyen botanical garden in January 2003. The plant has some rather strange-looking flowers that might resemble tiny bunches of bananas.

30-01-03, 95+96, Yellow 287+307

Small boy of Turkish origin was looking sceptical, being one of the few that became aware of being photographed. I felt exposed. He was holding a red plastic container with a yellow nozzle in Kreuzberg in December 2002. He is placed upon a small pumpkin, leaning against a far bigger one. The large one is orange, while the one he is standing on is looking sourish yellow. He is reinstated in the Botanical garden in Oslo, January 2003.

12-13-03, 97+98, Red 354+355

(The first picture painted in my studio in Donauerstrasse in Neuköln, Berlin). Boy about twelve, found at Torgallmenningen in Bergen, late Summer 1999. He was holding a milk shake, drinking through a straw. He is reinstated in front of two mugs from Olavsgaard in January 2003. The mugs have the legendary inscription "Stjær't på Olavsgaard Hotell" (stolen from Olavsgaard) on the underside, and they look monumental behind the boy, from whom a shadow is cast upon one of them.

12-03-03, 99+100, Green 77+97

Man in mint green jacket and red shirt, found at the Bergen quays during winter 2000. He was making a grimace with his mouth, either from dissatisfaction or from squinting at the sun. He is placed on the remnants of a seating that previously was in the hotel's lobby, and as such is an example of the former aesthetics of the hotel, consisting largely of pastels and flowery patterns. (For informations sake the hotel was inaugurated in 1985).

12-03-03, 101+102, Yellow 266+286

Small girl found of Turkish origin, found in Bergen during autumn 1999. She was wearing a far to big, beige fleece jacket, with a long and dark plait running down the red hooded sweater beneath the jacket. She was looking around in wonder and peering towards left. Perhaps she was watching a street musician or a juggler in the drizzle at Torgallmenningen. She is now reinstated on a bracket lamp with two twisted light bulbs in the staircase towards second floor of the hotel, January 2003.

12-03-03, 103+104, Blue 10+11

Business man in suit and tie, with a slight smile on his mouth, found in Bergen during autumn 1999. He was possibly just on a small errand, as he was carrying neither suitcase or briefcase. He is placed upon a dinner plate with a second plate beneath in January 2003. Both displayed the emblem of the hotel, O.H. He casts a dark yellow and a light lilac shadow upon the plate.

12-03-03, 105+106, Green 98+118

Elderly woman in a beige coat found in Bergen during winter 1999. She is a large specimen, and she was hurrying towards the right. Freshly blow-dried, lightly red and glossy, her hair might suggest that she came fresh out of the hairdresser. She is reinstated in January 2003 on a fabric sample used as curtains in one of the conference rooms, a wavy fabric mainly in shades of green and turquoise.

12-03-03, 107+108, Yellow 104+124

Small boy with blond hair, bowl haircut and yellow sweater, balancing across the low fence around Lille Lungegårdsvann on a sunny late summer day in Bergen in 1999. He did hold on with his hand, just in case. Possibly out with his mother or grandmother to feed the birds by the pond. He is reinserted upon a tablecloth, among the cutlery of the hotel restaurant. One can barely spot the emblem on the end of the fork. The picture is taken indoors in January 2003, but due to the strong afternoon light from the window, the boy casts a distinct shadow upon the fabric he is standing on.

12-03-03, 109+110, Green 192+206

Middle-aged woman found peeping into a shop window along the Kottbusser Damm in Berlin, November 2002. She was standing with a sister or friend whose shadow fell over her back. It was a market day, and she had brought a large bag to fit in the goods. She is reinstated in a plant without flowers in the windows of Palmehuset at Tøyen botanical garden in January 2003.

12-03-03, 111+112, Red 333+334

Elderly man with worn hair, grey ponytail and beige jacket, a faded hippie, found in Kreuzberg in October 2002. He was moving hurriedly over the street with his wheeled bag, filled with goods and topped with a large packet of toilet paper. He is reinstated in pink rose-like flowers at Tøyen botanical garden in January 2003.

12-03-03, 113+114, Yellow 215+229

Seated woman in cream yellow and beige clothings, found on the Bergen quays during late summer 1999. Probably she was a tourist taking a pause after the fatiguing sightseeing, watching fishmongers at work. Her attitude was still strong. She is placed in a curtain fabric from the hotel in January 2003. The fabric has many draperies, and she is granted with a soft seat in the raised part of one of the folds. The oriental character of the pattern gives associations towards a journey to a more exotic neighbourhood.

22-05-03, 115+116, Green 100+120

Boy in his early teens, found in Bergen, autumn 1999. He was crossing Torgallmenningen together with chief constable Wegner and another police officer. What the prehistory for this gathering was I do not now, but it was probably one of the many walks of the chief constable, in which he saluted elderly female admirers. He is set out in January 2003, on a yellow and white chequered, green chair cushion, originally used in one of the conference rooms on third floor.

16-06-03, 117+118, Yellow 102+122

The elderly woman was found in Berlin during December 2002. She was well prepared for the winter, with furs and matching pink scarf and woollen gloves, as she crossed the street by Paulincke ufer. She was walking with an empty wheelchair in front, probably her own. Next to her was a nurse, just in case she would become tired. From her exerted expression, it would likely not be long. She had a somewhat distinguished aura, in stature as well as dress, which gave associations to a wealthy and probably very cross mistress. She is reinstated in the golden mirror frame in the hallway of the lower ground floor towards the entrance of the hotel's night club, January 2003.

16-06-03, 119+120, Blue 4+5

(Painted at Stabekk, April 2003). The woman from New York was found on a cold but sunny day in February 2000. She looked seriously anxious and annoyed behind the dark sunglasses. She is reinstated on the hood of a parked car outside the entrance of Park Sanssouci in Potsdam, March 2003. In the background one can behold one of the stately constructions in the park. Communs, being its name, is extraordinary elegant considering the fact that it was the residence of the servants. The mighty baroque chateau Neues Palais lies straight across.

16-06-03, 121+122, Blue 50+51

The man in apparently good mood was found late summer in Oslo 1998. It was perhaps on a Sunday morning, because he was wearing his leisure wear, with the camera bag thrown over his shoulder. He is reinstated in one of the draperies in a denim jacket. It was left on a bench in Hasenheide park in Berlin, March 2003.

16-06-03, 123+124, Blue 56+57

Two small boys, brothers to be sure, the oldest about twelve and the youngest about eight, found lined up in front of their father's camera in Prague, July 1999. They were in front of one of the guards that guarded the St. Vitus Cathedral, clearly working hard to imitate his pose. The guards in front of the cathedral were a bigger attraction than the building itself, as they were constantly being photographed next to tourists. The boys are reinstated in the Sanssouci park during March 2003, planted in one of the well-trimmed ornamental shrubs along the outdoor steps to the luxurious chateau of Schloss Sanssouci.

16-06-03, 125+126, Yellow 198+212

(Back in Berlin). A slightly elderly man wearing glasses and chequered shirt was found in Prague during summer 1999, leaning towards the banister of the Karl's Bridge. One might assume, clothing and company considering, that he was an American. He looked uneasy, watching the river and the boats passing below. He is reinstated in yellow tulips at the porch of Sandø estate at Hvaler during Easter 2003. In the background one could see the patterned cushions that belonged to the garden suit of furniture.

16-06-03, 127+128, Red 297+298

The New Yorker found in January 2000 was dressed in a long and lilac quilted cloak and cap to stand the bitterly cold wind of the metropolis. She is reinstated in far more austral weather, at Hvaler in 2003, during the unnaturally hot Easter weekend. She is set in the draperies of a red T-shirt, leaned against a pair of sunglasses with a golden rim.

16-06-03, 129+130, Blue 107+108

The guard in a firm attention pose before his small dog house in front of the mighty St. Vitus Cathedral was found in Prague in July 1999. Constantly photographed by passing tourists, he never moved an inch. He is reinstated in a tuft of grass with common hepatica, to the sole sound of birds' twittering and a remote motor boat, on Nordre Sandøy during a spring day of 2003.

16-06-03, 131+132, Yellow 187+201

The dark Seaman was found amongst a group of several by the entrance of the Karl's Bridge in Prague in 1999. He is placed among small yellowed straws, leaned against a bird's feather on the beach of Hvaler, Easter 2003.

14-07-03, 133+134, Green 262+282

Cook employee from the hotel found rushing out the main entrance on a day of March 2002. One hand swinging his cooks' hat in the one hand, and a stack of papers in the other. It might be a proposed menu, or some documents left by someone at a meeting. He looked cheerful. He is reinstated in the Hasenheide park of Kreuzberg, just about a year later. He is attached to a thorn bush with partly green and brown leaves, and being prevented from further escapades by a thorn under his arm.

14-07-03, 135+136, Yellow 157+171

Corpulent and old Turkish woman found on the Kottbusser Bridge, a day in December 2002. She was bending downwards to arrange her merchandise on a carpet. Among the goods were self-made kerchiefs, toys and rusty objects, more or less garbage now, but objects that once were parts of larger items. She is placed in an old oak tree in Sofienbergparken in Oslo in January 2003. In her new context she more resembles an old woman from the countryside, in search of mushrooms or berries in the woods.

14-07-03, 137+138, Blue 33+34

Woman bent in her own thoughts, found hastening across the street in Bergen, during autumn 1999. Due to her speed, her woollen jacket caught some wind. Her narrow lips and glasses made her look stern and upright, but it might be her many errands that were the sole cause of her tensed up expression. She is now balancing herself in a mussel on the slope of a naked rock at Nordre Sandøy, Easter 2003. In the background one can see a worn quay with no boats in the dead calm water.

14-07-03, 139+140, Green 218+238

Police officer in full uniform and helmet, found in Bergen during autumn 1999. He was speaking in a microphone attached beneath his chin. His sober attitude seemed to suggest that there was little drama in the situation. Perhaps was he waiting on a passing demonstration procession, only to interfere in the event of commotion. The man of service is reinstated in the draperies of a rag mat. It was discarded on the porch of the Sandø estate at Hvaler during Easter 2003. He throws a distinct shadow on the colourful mat.

14-07-03, 141+142, Red 289+290

Young girl found in 1999, in the rare event of a sunny day in October in Bergen. Her blond hair was glistening in the sun as she was walking towards Verftet with her friends, wearing a black leather jacket. She is reinstated at Hvaler in 2003, among some red Cretaceous stones on the beach.

14-07-03, 143+144, Green 20+40

Bearded man with cap and a bulging beer stomach, found at the Bergen quays during autumn 2000, enjoying a soft cream ice with crushed nougat topping. He is placed in a patch of ferns at Hvaler during Easter 2003. A small but nice detail: one of the winding branches of the plant seems to hold him in a firm grasp, just about to devour him, whereas he himself is totally engaged in his ice cream.

14-07-03, 145+146, Yellow 174+188

The elderly woman found in Bergen during September 2000. She was dressed in a fair and long overcoat, a pink blouse and a turquoise scarf around her neck. She had brought a tartan umbrella, yet the sun was so strong that she had to look downwards to shield her eyes. She is reinstated at Hvaler during April 2003, attached to the yellow ladder that descends into the water from the quay. She casts green shadows on the handrail.

14-07-03, 147+148, Blue 46+47

Smoking man with ochry jacket, found slouching in the sun of Brooklyn, New York, January 2000. He was escorting an obedient dog, without a leash, that matched his jacket. Both gave the impression of having all the time in the world. He is reinstated in Berlin, in the beginning of July 2003. He is standing on one of the seats of the blue plastic chairs in one of the many tourist boats of the Spree. Here one can sit down, beer in hand, and behold the sights of the city passing by.

14-07-03, 149+150, Yellow

189+203

Teenage girl found in Bergen on May 2000. She was wearing a national costume and holding a large, light lilac, gas balloon in one hand, and a bag of red candy in the other. Evidently she was marked by the level of activity of this day, and one might presume her hair had been tidier earlier that day. She is reinstated in Tiergarten in Berlin during spring 2003. She is standing steadily in a set of daffodils. The colours, especially the green ones, look nearly artificial in their degree of freshness.

14-07-03, 151+152, Blue

12+13

Elderly buttoned woman, dressed all black, with the sole exception of a burgundy red scarf around her neck, was found in New York in February 2000. The enormous and dark sunglasses, in addition to the dense cap, gave her a mystical and rather frightening appearance. The glasses also enhanced the stature of her nose. She is placed out in June 2003, upon one of the tables on the canal boat that rides the Spree and the channels around Berlin. In the background, one can see observing tourists. In the nearest background is a glaring man with cap and light blue shirt. Behind the people one can see parts of the monumental new government buildings.

14-07-03, 153+154, Red

310+311

Man dressed in blue working trousers and tools, found in Oslo during spring 1999. I can remember precisely where I found him, at the spot where he stopped to light up a cigarette. He had just crossed the bridge that crosses the Akerselva river, and was continuing up the Waldemar Thrane street towards St.Hanshaugen. He is reinstated upon an orange rope that attaches the red life-buoy to the canal boat of Berlin, June 2003. In the background one can behold the Riksdagen building, with the German flag raised. In the glass dome, one can barely spot tiny small tourists.

26-02-04, 155+156, Blue

111+112

Lady with permanent waves and sunglasses, found by the entry of the pedestrian street in Bergen during autumn 1999. She had just stopped to check if everything was in its place in the pocket of her long and beige coat with sunspots. Perhaps keys, or some important documents. Considering her worried expression, she did not find what she was hoping for. She is placed amongst lilac thistles in one of the flower beds in Tiergarten, Berlin, June 2003. She is inexorably stuck, with one of the thistles jammed between her knees.

26-02-04, 157+158, Red

255+256

Young girl with bleached hair, wearing training shoes and a white Costa Rica-T-shirt, found in Bergen, late summer 1999. She was walking with some friends at a leisurely pace uphill from Verftet. It was a warm Sunday, and they had probably been in loose chattering over last night's events, seated at a table on the quay. She was carrying a coke bottle. She is reinstated among low red plants in the flowerbed of Tiergarten, Berlin, on an even hotter day of June 2003.

26-02-04, 159+160, Green

194+208

Belly dancer in red outfit, found parading through the streets of Berlin in June 2003. She wore fluttering skirts consisting in several thin layers, and a matching headdress and shawl. She also wore numerous golden coins on her head, in her bra and belt, making her jingle and dangle as she moved. She was partaking in the magnificent Kulture der welt parade, presumably a professional dancer. That day measured a 36 degree Celsius in the shadow, so dancing in the broiling sun during the hours of the parade was certainly a display of endurance. She is now reinstated in the big contrast; all alone on a green cushion in a noiseless environment, at Hvaler in August 2003.

26-02-04, 161+162, Blue

35+36

Belly dancer from the Kulture der welt parade in Berlin, found in June 2003. She was one of the representatives of a dancing school, and from her costume and way of moving, one might assume that she was less experienced than the others. Still, the emotion, the self confidence, and the nearly self-consuming love in her expression was easy to like. She was dressed in thin skirts, and the colours were mainly lilac and golden. She is placed upon a solid azure tablecloth at Hvaler in August 2003. She casts a darker, bluish shadow astern.

29-02-04, 163+164, Green 243+263

The elderly man in a dark suit on a bicycle was found along the heavily populated Kottbusser Damm in Berlin, September 2002. He was riding towards left, but turned his head rightwards, trying to spot an opening between the cars for him to be able to cross. He was not moved by the hurry of the others, sticking to his own sedate pace. He is reinstated among green flowers with a rubbery surface at Palmehuset in Botanisk hage at Tøyen in January 2003. As the plants are placed in one of the window frames, my selected object is peeping out at the mild and cold light of January.

29-02-04, 165+166, Red 337+338

Man in orange leather jacket and light blue jeans, found in Bergen during autumn 1999. He was vaguely stooped and his arms were limply hanging down his sides. It is almost more of a sensation to find someone who is carrying nothing in the city. The strong light drew sharp contrast on his clothes. He is reinstated upon a Se og Hør magazine, out in the garden of the Sandø estate at Hvaler, on an early morning of August 2003. On the front page, on which he is now walking, one can see pictures from the marriages of Lisa Marie Presley and Nicholas Cage.

01-03-04, 167+168, Red 358+359

Oriental woman found at the railway station of Prague, July 2000. She was dressed in a white costume with thin and long enveloping skirt, with a appropriate long shawl draped over her left shoulder. Over the other shoulder was a deep blue, heavy-looking bag. Her long black hair was high-piled, and in the sun it became obvious that it was greying. She is reinstated on the hood of a red car parked outside Neues Palais in Park Sanssouci in Potsdam, March 2003. One can see both the reflection of the palace with its massive dome, as well as my reinstated figure on the hood.

01-03-04, 169+170, Blue 73+74

Originally, the woman was classified under specimens found in Oslo during winter 2000, but I believe there has been a mix-up. I have a distinct recollection of having found her in Bergen during autumn 1999. She had just crossed the Nygårdsgata and passed the bar Garage, moving down towards Festplassen. I noticed her because the evening sun made her red anorak intensely red, adding an extra glow to her face. In her right pocket she had a coiled up tabloid. She is placed out in June 2003, upon one a blue plastic chair on one of the canal boat that rides the Spree through Berlin. Behind her you see the back of a man in cap, white beard and quilted shirt. Before him again, a man wearing sunglasses, rummaging his sack for a camera or a pair of binoculars.

01-03-04, 171+172, Yellow 247+267

Man of African origin, found in the Kulture der Welt parade in Berlin, June 2003. He was standing still in the heat. He had taken off his hat for a moment, and looked a bit exhausted, yet proud and handsome. He was dressed in a white shirt with pompous ruches on his arms, alternating in red and blue. He wore white matching shoes white training shoes. He is reinstated upon a quilt cover with white and yellow stripes and a flowered pattern, at Hvaler during August 2003.

10-03-04, 173+174, Green 39+59

Man walking towards right in a stately costume, found in the Kulture der Welt parade on a hot day of June in Berlin 2003. Besides a deep red suit with golden ornament and accompanying golden shoes and gloves, he was dressed in a shockingly pink creation from feathers, wrought on his back as if they were wings. He had a tall golden hat out of straw, with matching feathers, and his face wore a content grin. He carried the most important requisite of the day, the water bottle, in his hand. He is reinstated upon a turquoise tablecloth, laid on the Sandø estate at Hvaler on an early morning of September 2003. The silhouettes and shadows cast might guide one's mind towards a strutting peacock, rustling his feathers.

10-03-04, 175+176, Yellow 146+160

The woman was found parading through the streets of Berlin in June 2003. She was reposing, faintly stooping, and drinking from her water bottle. She wore an enormous skirt with several layers of turquoise fabric, and a similarly gigantic headgear consisting in light blue feathers. She is set in slightly more sober surroundings, on a ochry sheet at Nordre Sandøy, September 2003.

10-03-04, 177+178, Yellow 306+326

Employee at the hotel found in a strolling conversation with colleagues in January 2004. She wore a dark blue outfit with knee-length skirt and light blue shirt inside her jacket. She was looking down and right with a slight smile on her mouth. She is reinstated in parrot plant inside the Botanical garden in Berlin, February 2004. She is placed inside the huge and familiar palm house sketched by Alfred Koerner. Inside, the air is hot and damp, yet refreshing. One can see drops of dew on the plant she is standing at, and the sound of dribble is accompanied by the whispering from small tourist groups at a slow pace.

07-05-04, 179+180, Green 304+324

Smiling employee at the hotel found walking towards the right. It was a rather cold day of January 2004, so she wore a grey woollen jacket over her thin blouse. The jacket was embroidered with pastel flowers. She is reinstated in the Botanical garden in Berlin during February 2004. She is placed deep inside a extensive plant consisting in long grassy straws. Behind, one can see the adjacent sign, saying "Kyllinga vaginata."

07-05-04, 181+182, Green 260+280

Lady in hat found in Oslo during autumn 1998. She walked purposefully towards the right, in a black and white attire. She further wore a home-made, large-patterned jacket and black leather gloves. She is placed inside a discarded lamp shade from the hotel. It was found in a warehouse, where several objects from the 80s interior are stuffed away. The large flower-pattern in pink and turquoise and the lamp falls neatly in with the style of the woman's jacket. She is placed in an tear in the fabric, in January 2003.

07-05-04, 183+184, Blue 29+30

Employee at the Olavsgaard, aunt Elisabeth, found in the sunlight outside the main entrance of the hotel in March 2002. She was smilingly conscious of the camera. The name tag on her blue blazer shone yellow in the sun. She is reinstated one month later in Hasenheide park in Neuköln, Berlin. It was one of the first real hot days in Berlin, and quite a few people were slowly stirring in the park. A hare runs right before the lens, just before the picture is about to be taken.

20-05-04, 185+186, Green 162+176

Ole, the manager of the hotel, was found engaged in a cheerful conversation with a colleague outside the hotel in January 2004. He is placed in a plant with large yellow blades, yellow near the centre and turning crisp green towards the end points. He is standing at the blades' projection point, consisting mainly in red stems. Originally I wanted to place him inside an orchid in another greenhouse of those belonging to the Botanical garden of Berlin, but I lost him too deep inside the flowers for me to ever be able to fish him out. Fortunately I had made three different versions of the same. That specimen is thus left as a business card from the visit in February 2004.

21-05-04, 187+188, Green 79+99

Smiling female employee at the hotel found in company with colleagues in January 2003. She is reinstated in the ivy climbing up the balcony wall of my flat in Dieffenbachstrasse in Berlin, a day in March 2004.

21-05-04, 189+190, Green 136+150

This Oriental girl was found in the Kulture der Welt parade in Berlin, June 2003. She wore a spacious and delicate turquoise outfit and was smiling secretly on her own. She is placed upon a mirror in the garden of Sandø estate at Hvaler during September 2003. A strange effect appears as the figure is removed from the painting, and there is nothing but the white silhouette left, while the mirror image is still present.

21-05-04, 191+192, Blue 90+91

The woman from New York with a pair of scissors, a cross around her neck, and with a bandaged hand was found strolling just outside Central Park during winter 2000. The large and dark sunglasses, in addition to the sour expression, made her resemble a hostile insect. She is placed out in January 2003, in between a dinner plate and a second plate bearing the O.H. emblem in front. A draped white tablecloth lies in the background.

21-05-04, 193+194, Red 272+273

Young girl in a turquoise long dress and black roses in cloth, apparently casually arranged, was found in June 2003 in Kreuzberg, Berlin. She had blonde dreads, a haircut that must be said to be one of the most common in this part of the city. She is jammed in between two twigs in rustic surroundings at Hvaler, during Easter 2004. In the background one can spot an idle tractor with a trailer.

21-05-04, 195+196, Blue 65+66

The elderly woman was found outside the hotel at the day of the opening in 1985. She was lined up with the others along the red ribbon just cut to declare the Olavsgaard hotel open. She had an indeterminable look upon her face. Concerned, happy, unwell and distanced at the same time. Her hands were folded on her stomach. She wore a light grey outfit, with an accompanying light pink shirt. She is placed in the freshly cut apple tree in the garden of the Sandø estate in April 2004. The sky looks almost artificially blue.

21-05-04, 197+198, Red 236+237

Woman with red skirt ornamented in gold, and wearing a light sun hat, found in Berlin during June 2003. She is reinstated in a tree with sprouting buds at Hvaler during Good Friday 2004. In the background one can behold the Norwegian flag waving in the wind.

21-05-04, 199+200, Blue 92+93

The man wearing a khaki shirt and shorts was found parading through the streets of Berlin in June 2003. The strong sunlight made deep contrasting shades to both his face and his clothes. He was drinking a glass of beer while concentrating on what was happening on his left hand side. He is placed upon a white plastic stool, leaning up against a deck chair with a deep blue cushion during Easter 2004. The furniture belongs to the garden of the Sandø estate at Nordre Sandøy.

21-06-05, 201+202, Green

115+135

Woman in a speckled pink bathing costume, sunglasses and hair ribbon, found in a strolling conversation at the beach of Calpe, Spain, July 2004. She is reinstated in a white kerosene lamp decorated with butterflies, at the cabin of Johnsbu near Dagali during the Winter Holidays 2005.

12-04-05, 203+204, Yellow

226+246

Girl revelling in candy, with a pink shoulder bag, found at Torgallmenningen in Bergen, September 1999. She wore a black coat with white fake fur around neck and arms, and matching white stockings to go. She was standing in a crowd with girls of the same age, presumably speaking of boys. She is placed in the sand between horizontal yellow straws and rush, with some green ones on her left, at Hvaler during Easter 2003.

12-04-05, 205+206, Blue

88+89

Richly colourful, middle-aged woman found in New York in February 2000. She wore a red fleece jacket and appropriate cap with ear flaps. The sweater oozing out from beneath was orange, whereas the silk scarf around her neck was shockingly pink, with large black spots on it. She wore dark sunglasses, despite the fact that the weather was rather bad. She was one of the objects that obviously became aware of me as I took her photo, but she did not seem to make any objections. Rather she gave me a hearty smile. She was reinstated in September 2003, between two of the cut-out planks that make for the fence around the new terrace on the Sandø estate at Hvaler.

12-04-05, 207+208, Yellow

202+216

Elderly female tourist, found at the Bergen quays, late summer 1999. Despite her reasonable outfit, consisting in an airy brown-chequered pleated skirt, a turquoise sweater, and not the least, comfortably looking Ecco (or similar) shoes, one could see from her attitude that her walking was soon to take an end. Her one hand was tucked at her side, as if she was in pain from her back, and even though her face was turned away, I bet she was marked by a slight suffering. She is reinstated on a brass banister painted yellow, in Tiergarten, Berlin, during a hot day of June 2003.

26-04-05, 209+210, Green

117+137

Two Asian women, possibly mother and daughter, was found by the Karl's Bridge in Prague during summer 1999. Each were looking her own way, and their backs were partly overlapping. The older woman was watching something at eye level, while the younger was in conversation with one of the travelling companions. Both wore comfortable clothes, dressed for long days sightseeing and with white cloth hats to protect from sun. The older had an abdominal belt and a jacket wrought around her waist. They are reinstated in a tree with see-view during a day of Easter at Hvaler 2004. Planted among pine needles, sighting separate ways.

26-04-05, 211+212, Yellow

123+143

Young and tanned girl with white shorts and matching singlet, only partly covering her abdomen, found strolling along the esplanade at Calpe, Costa Blanca in Spain, during August 2004. She is reinstated amongst yellow leaves in the crisp air of autumn in the Torshov Valley, October 2004. This is one of the few days of autumn in which the sky has such a dazzling blueness and the autumnal colours of the trees are so intense.

26-04-05, 213+214, Blue

67+68

Smiling man of some weight, in his fifties, found at the market in Santiago de Compostela, Spain, spring 2000. There was a certain aura of mafia in this dress code. The grey suit, the dark glasses, the shining hair groomed backwards, and not to mention the gaudiness of the large golden rings on some of his fingers. Also he was somewhat dandy in his pose, as he just previously had shot me with his small compact camera, while I short after took his picture. That's why the smile. He is now placed on the banister of the bower at the crest of the Torshov park during October 2004. A nice place, with a view of the city and the sea.

26-04-05, 215+216, Red 276+277

The priest was found hurrying down the paved streets in Santiago de Compostela, Spain, during spring 2000. He is reinstated in small red turnips attached to a shrub on the roadside at Torshov in October 2004.

26-04-05, 217+218, Yellow 183+197

Young boy intensely focused on the soccer game with his friends, found at the beach of Calpe, Spain, during August 2004. He was dressed in nothing but light green shorts, accompanied with a necklace and watch in cheap gold imitation. He is reinstated in Oslo during October 2004, or rather, he is stuck upon the stem of a yellow Norway maple in the Torshov valley.

26-04-05, 219+220, Red 348+349

Young boy with only a red Bermuda shorts covered in large white flowers, found by the waterside at Calpe, Spain, during August 2004. He was talking to his girlfriend and, the redness considering, he had forgot to apply sunscreen during the last hours. He is reinstated in an ornamental shrub at Torshov in Oslo, October 2004. The shrub is covered with clusters of tiny red leaves that match his shorts perfectly.

26-04-05, 221+222, Green 205+219

The pair was found in the streets of Santiago de Compostela during spring 2000, intensely scrutinising a map or a tourist brochure. They were dressed as a pair, identical yellow all-weather jackets, blue jeans, and practical brown rucksacks. He was also carrying an umbrella, just in case. They are reinstated in a light yellow leaves with a yellow brim. More lying on top of than attached to the foliage, their shadows seem different than they otherwise would be. They are placed by the roadside near the Torshov valley in October 2004.

26-04-05, 223+224, Red 308+309

Spanish wife found in chatter with another like-minded, found in a narrow alley in Santiago de Compostela during the spring of 2000. She wore a practical everyday dress with orange and turquoise patterns, along with comfortable shoes without heel. Interpreting the pose, she was listening intently, and throwing in a bit of fancy, one could actually see her ear cocked just a little bit. The odds are low on the topic being town gossip. She is reinstated in a small hardwood standing isolated close to the centre of the large hollow of the Torshov valley, The leaves are in intense shades of orange and rusty red, stronger than all the other trees in the vicinity. She is placed out on a sunny autumnal day of 2004.

26-04-05, 225+226, Yellow 85+105

Young boy running around in a good spirit at the beach of Calpe on Costa Blanca, Spain, during August 2004. He is reinstated on a straw at the roadside, strongly discoloured by traffic, just by the Sandaker Centre during October 2004. In the background, one can see the monumental grain silos looming over the Akerselva river. Painted white from the top, the simple drawings of grain begins some distance further down, covering two thirds of the silos in the yellow.

26-04-05, 227+228, Red

251+252

African woman from the Kulture der welt parade in Berlin, found during an extremely hot day of June 2003. She was dressed in a dark pink, airy dress of chiffon, and with feathery elements in pink, yellow, green and turquoise, altogether creating an impressive headgear. The bent white platform shoes could not possibly be of service in the kind of dancing she continuously entertained herself with in the 32 degrees Celsius. She is placed along the road up to Makø at Nordre Sandøy, Hvaler during Easter 2004. A twig from a dead pine tree is stuck between her waistline and her right arm. The tree is placed upon the large bonfire burning in the background. I sacrifice a pair of blue jeans and receive a burn for the sake of this photo.

26-04-05, 229+230, Green

220+240

Man in bowler, sandals, red-striped sweater and braces, found in Berlin during June 2003. He was dressed up to partake in the annual World Culture Festival, and the roll of scotch tape in his right hand indicate that he might be one of the persons organizing the event. He is reinstated on a bud on the end of a twig outside a large Swiss cottage at Nordre Sandøy during spring 2004. This is the house used by Vibeke Løkkeberg during the recording of the film "Måker".

26-04-05, 231+232, Red

360+361

The woman with her arms folded was found while waiting to cross the crowded street in the new part of Santiago de Compostela during the spring of 2000. She was dressed in a split suit where trousers and suit coat were both lighter green. Her grey, near white hair was high-piled, and the top end went down her neck. She is reinstated in a sunny scree amongst shiny red chestnuts at Hvaler during Good Friday 2004.

26-04-05, 233+234, Red

335+336

Lady with her arms tucked into her waist and a red stick in her right hand was found on the annual World Culture Festival in Berlin, June 2003. She was a member of a folk dance group and was accordingly dressed. She wore a broad-brimmed straw hat, a white embroidered blouse and a green and red ankle-length skirt. At the near middle of the skirt was a kind of crinoline that made the skirt stay extended. She reminded me of one of the dolls dressed in the national costume, or some other distinct costume, placed at the top shelf on the girl's room. She is placed upon the rusty lock of the tractor trailer at the Sandø farm, at Hvaler during Easter 2004.

29-04-05, 235+236, Green

224+244

The man was found in Santiago de Compostela, Spain, during spring 2000. Due to his extraordinary height, his hurry and his stooping character, the hastening movement of this long-legged man was rather funny. He was dressed in a grey smoke jacket, carrying what I believe was some important documents in his left hand. I figured that he was working in a second-hand, or a small bookshop nearby, and that he was an extensive reader and a gentle person. He is reinstated in the long green grass in the slope up to the Torshov park in October 2004. In the background one can see the bower at the top, with autumnal yellow trees as a back cloth.

29-04-05, 237+238, Green

58+78

Man with camera tripod dressed for safari, found while recording the carnival parade in Kreuzberg, June 2004. He was concentrating, slightly knee-bent and stooped, to get the best possible angle. He is reinstated in marine surroundings, amongst muzzles and spiny cockles, seaweed and sea tangle, at the waterside of Hvaler during September 2003.

07-05-05, 239+240, Blue

6+7

Original couple found bicycling in Kreuzberg, Berlin, during June 2003. Two of the many survivor hippies living in the area turned into a small village in the city along the Spree river. A smell of incense and marijuana mixes into the air when approaching the small community of home-made austere camping cabins ornamented with colourful wall paintings. He was dressed in a pair of orange, rolled-up trousers and a long lilac velvet coat with nothing underneath. A sign painted with red henna colour was painted his abdomen. On his head, he carried a top hat with a leopard scarf around it, and underneath a thick tangle of long hair sprung out. Moreover; round sunglasses, moustache and bare feet. She came right behind on a similarly lumber of a bike, dressed in an azure velvet dress that left the abdomen naked. He had a child seat on his bike, but the child seemed to be left at home that day. The colourful couple is reinstated in the wild and leafless hedge at Nordre Sandøy during Easter 2003, with the bright blue skies in the background.

07-05-05, 241+242, Yellow

185+199

This middle-aged man with a silly-looking red hat and a Hawaii shirt with large white and blue flowers was found while admiring the Kulture der Welt parade through the streets of Berlin during June 2003. He had a rather sceptical look upon his face. He was carrying a hiking bag and was walking with white tennis socks inside his sandals. He is set among waving rush in the wind down in the dip which is also the frogs favourite dwelling at Nordre Sandøy, in September 2003.

17-01-06, 243+244, Blue

14+15

Middle-aged man looking to be enjoying life to the brink at the beach of Calpe, Spain, August 2004. He was looking snugly down at his small wife, and he was dressed in khaki shorts, open shirt with short sleeves, exposing a conspicuous beer stomach, and on the head, a beige straw hat with a leather band. The jewellery and the expensive-looking watch gave impressions of a mighty family head, on a rather out of place cheap Mediterranean vacation. He is reinstated upon a fence along the avenue leading towards the bower in the Torshov park during the autumn of 2004. He is jammed into a crack, next to a large nut and screw.

17-01-06, 245+246, Red

341+342

Peering young girl, just exiting the water after a swim, found at the beach of Costa Blanca, Spain, during August 2004. She was chattering with her brother while straightening her blue bikini. She is moved into brand new surroundings, at Johnsbu, a genuine Norwegian cabin near Geilo, during winter 2005. She is placed upon a small and red, carved wooden chair with simple rose painting.

17-01-06, 247+248, Green

177+191

Small blonde girl in white effervescent dress, white knee stockings and cloth shoes found playing on the waterside of Lille Lungårdsvann in Bergen during late summer 1998. A touring circus was in town, and they were rigging the tent at the Festplassen square on that day. I would guess that the girl was from one of the touring families. He is placed on the seaside at Nordre Sandø during Easter 2003. She floats easily on the surface, with green and glistening seaweed in the background.

17-01-06, 249+250, Red

257+258

The small girl was found on the 17th of May 2000 in the streets of Bergen. Due to the weather, she wore a creamy white knitted poncho over her national costume. She also wore leisure shoes for the same purpose, with thick rubber soles and shoe laces. She is now reinstated leaning up against a rose painted forge bellows for the hearth of a cabin at Tunhovd, in the winter of 2005.

17-01-06, 251+252, Blue

48+49

Young woman carrying her daughter, found at the Torgallmenningen square in Bergen, waving while walking down some steps painted red as part of a performance act. I didn't know them at the time of the photo, autumn 1999, but have later come to know the woman, even to the point of becoming colleagues. They are placed on the welcoming sign at the cabin door of Johnsbu in winter 2005. The sign is of ceramic and represent a man and a woman dressed in blue national costumes. Above is written "velkommen".

17-01-06, 253+254, Green 60+80

The nun was found hastening to the right in Santiago de Compostela, Spain, during spring 2000. She was either late for mass or for a tea party. She was dressed in a knee-long and white skirt, blue upper part, and a lighter bluish headgear. She is now placed on the banister of the Oberbaumbrücke bridge, between Kreuzberg and Friedrichain, in April 2005. In the background, the Spree river can be seen, with its blue river boats and the television mast in the far distance.

17-01-06, 255+256, Blue 44+45

The thoughtful elderly man without coat was found strolling across paved road with his hands in his pockets in Santiago de Compostela, Spain, during spring 2000. He is now set upon the turquoise my sisters' slippers, lying casually discarded on the lawn of the Sandø estate during the summer of 2005.

17-01-06, 257+258, Yellow 268+288

Stately dressed maharajah found at the Kulture der Welt parade in Berlin, June 2003. He wore the lilac silk outfit and corresponding headgear and black moustache with the aura of a monarch. With him he had a "servant" who, at all time, held a silly-looking pink umbrella over his head, in addition to frenetically waving a fan to maintain a tolerable temperature. He is reinstated in a colony of lions' teeth in a garden at Nordre Sandøy, Hvaler, during the summer of 2005.

17-01-06, 259+260, Red 291+292

The woman in the black hat was found hastening across the road in Santiago de Compostela during spring 2000. The large and light blue jacket was thrown over the shoulders in a way that she from behind seemed to be without hands. She is placed out in April 2005, on the top of a sawn off metal pipeline, with one of the seemingly everlasting construction sites in Berlin in the background. More specifically, she was set in front of the construction site to what is to become the largest railway station in Europe, the Östbahnhof. Dark blue threatening clouds gather in the background behind the large red cranes.

17-01-06, 261+262, Red 352+353

The man with his arms well tucked into his waist, either to show determination, or because the position is comfortable, was found outside the entrance of the hotel in March 2002. He was in a conversation with another man whose eyes was blinded by the sun. He is posed in the draperies of an orientally inspired shawl, mainly pink and red, at Hvaler during the summer of 2005.

13-06-06, 263+264, Blue 16+17

Woman looking down, dressed in matching yellow jacket and hat, found in Oslo during spring 1998. Her left side was strongly enlightened by the sun, and she was carrying a semi-heavy ICA shopping bag. She is reinstated on the banister over the Spree river at Oberbaumbrücke. The picture was taken as one of the blue canal boats passed beneath the bridge. April 2005, and off season. Beneath the yellow woman, one can spot a sole demi-bald and smoking man, and another woman, both peering towards left.

13-06-06, 265+266, Yellow 159+173

Young boy dressed in blue jeans and matching jacket, peering towards the right with his face in the sun, found in Bergen during autumn 1998. He is placed among apples and pears arranged in a bowl of fruits. The bowl is placed on the porch table on a cabin near Geilo, during winter 2005.

13-06-06, 267+268, Yellow

64+84

Typical scandalmonger in hot debate with a like-minded, found in Santiago de Compostela in Spain during spring 2000. She was acidly pointing leftwards at something. They were standing in the middle of the narrow street in a loud exchange of gossip. She is reinstated in a fiddler's snug embrace at Tunhovd, winter 2005. He is one of a great number of intricate pieces of bric-a-brac amounting for the decoration of the classical Norwegian cabin. The metallic doll, with its painted clown face, will start playing piercing tones on his fiddle if he is wound up.

13-06-06, 269+270, Blue

25+26

Asian woman in stiff pose to her husband's camera, with a shy but warm smile, found in Prague in July 1999. She was posing in front of one of the guards that guarded the St. Vitus cathedral. She is reinstated in front of the Spree river in Berlin in April 2005. She is standing on a small niche on the bridge between Kreuzberg and Friedrichain, Öberbaumbrücke, viewing the river and the pier with all the cranes. In the middle of the river one can see the back of a sign, on which the familiar yellow fist is spray painted. It seems as if the person of whom this very graffiti is the trademark, has decided to paint the fists on the most inaccessible places, which actually is rather impressive.

13-06-06, 271+272, Blue

113+114

Softly smiling woman in light blue costume and knee-length skirt was found with arms folded in Santiago de Compostela during spring 2000. She is set in the draperies of my turquoise and dark blue singlet, crumpled together in a bundle at one of the beaches of Crete, in July 2005.

13-06-06, 273+274, Yellow

285+305

Man dressed as a servant for a dressed up maharajah, found at the Kulture der Welt parade in Berlin, June 2003. In addition to an impressive, fake and black moustache, a costume consisting in balloon trousers, a vest, and headgear in matching dark blue and golden. With a seriously-looking expression, he was holding a silly umbrella over his master. He is set in the warm and golden afternoon light, on a yellow slope of a naked rock, by the outskirts of the beach at Crete, summer 2005.

13-06-06, 275+276, Red

346+347

Pensive old man caught from behind, as he was slowly walking through Bergen, autumn 1999. He was dressed in a semi-long light coat and a hat askew, hands folded on his back. He is half buried in soft sand, in between the strings from a red bikini top, and the sea can be seen from behind. He is reinstated at Crete during the summer of 2005.

14-06-06, 277+278, Green

138+152

Young impatient man waiting in front of a telephone booth in New York, winter 2000. Despite the sun, it was a cold day to stay motionless, so he had tucked his hand deep inside the pockets of his beige leather jacket with a fur collar. He was faintly leaning towards the wall, feet crossed. He is placed in considerably warmer climate, on Crete during the summer of 2005. Here he is waiting inside a verdigris green cluster of grapes, out on a solitary vine in the outskirts of the city of Hersonissos.

14-06-06, 279+280, Blue

54+55

Elderly woman in a baby pink and black pleated skirt, found in Oslo during winter 1998. She was carrying a large white handbag, in which she was rummaging with her right hand. Her pale face covered by the large glasses wore a worried expression. She is placed in between two beautiful orchids of crisp blue and lilac nuances. The flowers are growing wild along the road toward the Knossos ruins at Crete in July 2005.

14-06-06, 281+282, Blue 71+72

Scrutinising man found in the streets of Santiago de Compostela during spring 2000. He was studying a map or a road description, apparently in worry. His large and seemingly heavy bag was resting over his right arm. He is placed inside the heap of my blue linen dress left on the beaches of Crete during summer of 2005. In the background, one can see a boy in blue bathing trousers who is playing badminton, and others on their way into the crystal ocean.

14-06-06, 283+284, Green 281+301

Dressed up woman from the Kulture der welt parade in Berlin, during a hot day of June 2003. She wore a costume that was identical to the rest of the band comprising about 20-30 men and women. The costume was a strangely large collar with ruches and corresponding tall headgear made out of feathers in green and orange. Beyond that, accompanying the white bathing trousers she wore stiff figures around calves and arms, same colours as the collar and feathers. She was walking rather absent-minded while beating a tiny white drum. She is set in a strangely looking plant with green and orange clusters of balls, easily reminding one of small peppers. The cluster is placed on a strong stem, almost a trunk, on Crete during summer 2005.

14-06-06, 285+286, Red 318+319

Small blond girl in national costume found on the 17th of May 2000 in Bergen, beholding the wet square of Festplassen. Attitude and hairstyle both revealed some weariness after the national holiday. She is placed out on a hot day of July, on Crete in 2005, with the calm waves rolling towards the beach. Tanned backs can be seen in the background. She is placed in a pile of wet sand in the hands of my friend.

14-06-06, 287+288, Green 209+223

Something to the left had just caught the eye of this white-haired woman, as she was found at the Torgallmenningen square in Bergen on the 17th of May 2000. She looked almost flustered in her red, black and white national costume, hands limply hanging down. She is reinstated in the shadow play cast from some large and very green leaves in the hot afternoon on Crete 2005.

14-06-06, 289+290, Red 356+357

Suntanned woman with pink covet dress caught from behind in a slow walk at the seaside of the beach of Calpe, Spain, during August 2004. She had a matching pair of pink sandals with small heels, not exactly looking suitable for the sandy beach. A small white handbag was dangling around her side. She is reinstated almost a year later on Crete, in the middle of a spectacular pink orchid with a core of deep red and orange stamens.

16-01-07, 291+292, Blue 8+9

Grinning boy with verdigris green quilted anorak tied around his waist, and a deep yellow T-shirt with Goofy as motif. Found in the streets of Oslo during spring 1998. What in the morning had felt like winter was to become a warm and sunny day of spring. He was carrying a light green and full carrier bag, and a satchel on his back, and it seemed like he found life satisfying. He is placed upon page 146 of The Year of the hare by Arto Paasilinna, placed upon a towel spread out on the beaches of Crete, July 2005.

16-01-07, 293+294, Yellow 43+63

Grey-haired man with dark moustache and leisure wear found sitting upon a wall in Santiago de Compostela during spring 2000 while fumbling concentrated on the wire of a microphone.

Around his neck was a small camcorder, and next to his feet was the camera bag. He was found right outside the large cathedral in the city, and was probably about to immortalize one of the many spectacular masses of the day. He is placed inside the garden shrubs in front of a typical Torshov building close to the park. He is reinserted on an early morning of October in 2004, as the autumnal colours are at their strongest, to make his ornamental shrub seem even more yellow.

16-01-07, 295+296, Red 278+279

Tightly wrapped New Yorker with fur lining on his hood, and a bag over his left shoulder, found in Central Park on a cold day of February 2000. He is reinstated in a rose bush with no flowers in the sunny wall of the terrace at Sandø estate, on a day of August 2005.

06-02-07, 297+298, Green 119+139

Grizzled homeless man with cap and scarf found carrying a heavy-looking blue bag over his shoulder in New York, winter 2000. He was strong-looking as he was walking determined, yet perhaps with no actual destination. He is reinstated in a tree in the Görlitzer park in Kreuzberg, Berlin, April 2005.

06-02-07, 299+300, Red 329+330

Small girl dressed in a light yellow all-weather jacket and corresponding skirt of the same fabric, found at the Torgallmenningen square in Bergen on the 17th of May 2000. She had a ponytail and a headband and large lumpy shoes to keep the rain off. She is placed out on a stone carved, red pillar that supports this bridge over the Spree river in Berlin. She is placed out on a sunny day of April 2005 at the Überbaumbrücke bridge.

06-02-07, 301+302, Yellow 81+101

The street musician seated on a striped camp stool was found in a pedestrian subway (mainly used by tourists and pilgrims) in Santiago de Compostela on a day of spring in 2000. He was playing melancholy songs on his guitar. Hence the despairing expression on his face. He is reinstated in-between home-made yellow and black Selbuvotter on the Johnsbu cabin at Tunhovd during winter 2005.

06-02-07, 303+304, Red 314+315

Woman in fair and loose leisure wear, including a white cap, found as she was taking photos of the ruins of Knossos, Crete, in August 2005. She is now placed upon one of the red benches at Grünerløkka during March 2006.

06-02-07, 305+306, Green 164+178

Slightly hunched, elderly woman, found walking towards the right on the paved road of Santiago de Compostela, May 2000. She was carefully dressed up, in red trousers with white dots and a red skirt. The woollen jacket and the shoes were both white. In her ears, she wore red clipped eardrops, and around her neck, a white pearl necklace. Her face, also close to white due to the strong sunlight, looked troubled. He is placed up against a verdigris green purse, with the green lawn of the Dælenenga soccer court in the background, March 2006.

06-02-07, 307+308, Red 295+296

Small bluish boy, hat protecting from the sun, was found lead by the hand of an adult among a tourist group in the ruins of Knossos on Crete, August 2005. He is reinstated between two orange bricks on the outer wall of the Grünerløkka primary school during March 2006.

07-02-07, 309+310, Yellow 125+145

Woman in short blue trousers and a red shawl, found as she was listening to the tourist guide, apparently with little interest, at Knossos, Crete, in August 2005. She looked perplex, eyes bent downwards. She is placed upon one of the yellow stools belonging to Parkteatret at Grünerløkka during March 2006.

07-02-07, 311+312, Green 168+182

French tourist with heavy-looking red rucksack, a light summer dress and a faint yellow headscarf around her dark hair to protect from the heat, found in the ruins of Knossos at Crete during August 2005. She is jammed into the green grid of the goal at the Dælenenga soccer court in Oslo, March 2006.

07-02-07, 313+314, Yellow 245+265

Man in golden hair and dark brown outfit, found on the pedestrian walk along Lille Lungårdsvann in Bergen during autumn 1999. He was rubbing his eye with his left hand, to wipe away a tear. Perhaps he was only sensitive to the sun, or maybe he was struck by a sudden melancholy. He is now reinstated in some straws growing wild along an old wooden fence by the beach of Crete, in July 2005.

07-02-07, 315+316, Green 166+180

Young girl with hand lifted to cover the sun, scowling towards the right, found at Verftet in Bergen, September 1999. She is placed among lilac flowers in Tiergarten in Berlin, on a warm day of June 2003.

07-02-07, 317+318, Red 331+332

Woman wearing a long lilac coat with animal patterns and orange trousers, walking the streets of New York in February 2000. Some fair curls fell out of the black cap and down the collar, and a grey bag hung over her shoulder. Her pace was hurried and tense. Perhaps from the cold. She is now placed in a far warmer climate. She is partly hidden by a branch containing several pale red orchids, on Crete during August 2005.

07-02-07, 319+320, Green 264+284

Small boy with blue cap, orange shorts and sandals, found taking a pause from the play with his little brothers. He was scratching the crust from a wound on his cheek, at the ruins of Knossos, Crete, in August 2005. He is reinstated in some rose bushes without roses, with the pavilion of the Birkelunden park in the background, at Grünerløkka during March 2006.

07-02-07, 321+322, Blue 31+32

Elderly man dressed in national costume, carrying an umbrella and a resigned expression on the 17th of May 1999 in Bergen. He is relocated on one of the number of lilac shrubs that populate one of the edges of the large depression in the Görlitzer park, Kreuzberg, in Berlin April 2005.

07-02-07, 323+324, Yellow 22+42

The red-haired, skinny schoolgirl with a leather rucksack and white scarf was caught walking idly around in Oslo in February 1998. She is reinstated on top of a KK magazine, in which a female model with a flirtatious look is on the front page. The girl casts a shadow on a tube of sunscreen, factor 30, placed in front of her. He is reinstated in the vernal air on the terrace of Sandø estate at Hvaler during Easter 2006.

07-02-07, 325+326, Green 241+261

The small and elderly woman in a light blue coat and fair orange hair was found hastening to the right, in the streets of Oslo on an early day of spring in 1998. She is placed within the hull of an Easter egg, made out of cardboard, which is leaned up against another hull. The eggs are decorated with rabbits and hens, incidentally already cleared of any candy that might have been there before. She is placed out at Nordre Sandøy, Hvaler during Easter 2006.

07-02-07, 327+328, Yellow 1+21

Small girl totally focused on her red lollipop, found at the Torgallmenningen square in Bergen on the 17th of May 1999. At the opportunity she was dressed in a rain coat, in red, white and blue. She is placed in a bouquet of spring flowers consisting of common hepatica, butterbur and moss. The bouquet decorates the laying on the breakfast table with painted eggs and yellow candles at the Sandø farm, at Hvaler during Easter 2006.

19-06-07, 329+330, Blue 37+38

Elderly woman in a blue winter coat with double straps, and with a corresponding hat, found in Oslo during Winter 1998. She wore black leather gloves, and with her free hand, the one not placed in the pocket of the coat, she was carrying her handbag slightly extended from her body. She had a downward stare and a focused expression upon her face, probably due to the lack of sand on the icy sidewalk. She is reinstated on the white plastic table, leaned up against an egg cup filled with fresh common hepatica. On this Easter morning at Hvaler in 2006, there is also a stack of empty white and blue coffee cups on the table.

19-06-07, 331+332, Green 181+195

Einar, the jack-of-all-trades at Olavsgaard, was found hurrying towards the right, next to the entrance of the hotel an early day during summer 2003. He is now reinstated in a light green plant with a few yellow flowers, in the basking heat on the mountain at Crete, in August 2005.

19-06-07, 333+334, Yellow 200+214

The working man in red coveralls was found in New York in the winter of 2000. He was handling some large, though apparently not so heavy, cardboard boxes. He was loading some items into a van parked outside a storehouse in Brooklyn. He is placed out during Easter 2006, in one of the six yellow lamp shades that constitute the white chandelier in the garden suite of the Sandø estate.

19-06-07, 335+336, Yellow 127+147

The African woman in black, white and orange dress, with sunglasses on her head, was caught as she was taking a nap in the shadows of the esplanade at Calpe in Spain 2004. She was holding her hand over her right knee, as if in pain. She is reinstated in the Torshov park in Oslo during October 2004, perched upon a naked branch, with the pavilion and the yellowed broadleaved trees in the background.

19-06-07, 337+338, Yellow 170+184

The man in a dark blue cap and hood sweater was caught while talking in the cell phone in Bergen during late summer 1999. He is now reinstated among ruins and large jars on a morning in August, at Knossos, Crete 2005.

22-06-07, 339+340, Yellow 213+227

The man with a scarf on his head, sun glasses and a red shirt with an imprint of "4", was found with his arms tucked at his sides, in San Francisco, March 2002. He is placed at the Überbaumbrücke bridge in Berlin, with the Disney-like towers and the yellow subway in the background, on a day of April 2005.

22-06-07, 341+342, Green 222+242

Dandy middle-aged man dressed in a white shirt and creased trousers was found in Santiago de Compostela during spring 2000. He was standing in the doorway of his shop, glaring up the street in discontent. He is reinstated in-between two rose painted ladles on the cabin at Tunhovd during winter 2005.

22-06-07, 343+344, Green 283+303

Young man in blue sneakers and a bag from Narvesen, caught hurrying through the Birkelunden park at Grünerløkka in Oslo, June 2006. He appeared to be humming a tune. He is placed upon the branch of a cactus at Costa Blanca in Spain, August 2006.

22-06-07, 345+346, Red 362+363

The man dressed in green with the bag thrown across his shoulder was found in Oslo during autumn 1998. He is placed upon a red fan, in the hands of a friend of mine in August 2006. The placing out is made while waiting to be served paella, at the small family driven restaurant by the ocean in the outskirts of Altea.

22-06-07, 347+348, Yellow 121+141

Smiling mother and sceptical daughter found baked under the sun in the Kulture der Welt parade in Berlin, June 2003. Both wore yellow clothes and hair ribbons. The mother, in a ankle-length, wide coat, had paintings all over her face. The music was perhaps too loud, or at least of low standards to the daughter, holding her hands over her ears. They are placed on the brass handle of the yellow door of a mountain cabin at Tunhovd in February 2005.

22-06-07, 349+350, Yellow 142+156

The man with the deceptive inscription L A. café on his burgundy red jacket was found in New York in the winter of 2000. He was looking to the left under his cap, wheeling in front of him, a wagon full of bags and pouches. He is placed upon an orange and pink floating mattress in the pool of Casa Montana in Spain, July 2006. In the background, one can see the bric-a-brac of a true size woman in stone, decorated with cloth and flowers.

22-06-07, 351+352, Green 323+343

Man in camouflage trousers and hat against sun, rucksack, plastic bag and a walking stick, found in conversation with another wanderer, in San Francisco in March 2002. He is placed inside a near withered palm near Altea, Spain, during August 2006.

23-06-07, 353+354, Blue 2+3

Elderly man - the manager of it all - dressed in a blue suit and tie, found in front of the hotel during the official opening of Olavsgaard in 1985. His hands were gathered in front, and he wore a wry and proud smile. The characteristic dark eyelashes were half raised. He is reinstated at the naked slope of a rock at Vasser in Vestfold, with the World's End in the background, on a warm afternoon in July 2006.

23-06-07, 355+356, Red 299+300

Man dressed in blue trousers and a dark, fluffy hair with a growing bald spot, found at the Kottbusser Damm in Berlin in September 2003. He had just passed out of one of the huge Turkish grocery shops in the street, and was therefore carrying a large and light blue plastic bag. He is now reinstated among pink flowers growing wild along the edge of the ditches at Crete, in July 2005.

23-06-07, 357+358, Green 140+154

Casual dark-haired man with a Hawaii shirt, found outside a church in L.A. in April 2002. One of his legs was resting on the edge of a dried-out fountain. His expression testified either of boredom or indifference. He is placed in a low and old vase of slightly coloured glass, at the moment being filled with common hepatica and butterbur, in April 2006 at Hvaler.

23-06-07, 359+360, Yellow 62+82

The red-haired boy dressed in a dark blue sweatsuit in white and red stripes was found in a light trot across the Torgallmenningen square in Bergen, during autumn 1999. He is relocated on a worn yellow bench of wood in the Görlitzer park, in Berlin, April 2005.

23-06-07, 361+362, Yellow 144+158

The strong sunlight made the yellow coat of the elderly woman seem close to white as she was found by the Trefoldighetskirken in Oslo during winter 1998. She wore a lilac shawl across her shoulders. She is placed upon the banister along the esplanade at Crete during August 2006, and she casts a strong shadow to the right. Below one can see people basking in the sun, on their pink sun loungers and under yellow sunshades.

23-06-07, 363+364, Green 344+364

The first guests of the Hotel, a middle-aged and bespectacled Norwegian-American couple, was found in the ballroom at Olavsgaard, receiving a gift from the hotel manager. Ruby and Marwin Hansen were guests of honour, and were assigned one of the suits, on the opening day in 1985. They have come back later, and on one occasion, their grandchildren have paid a visit. Both were dressed up for the presentation, him in a light shirt and she with a dark blue silk scarf around her neck, to match the blue pantsuit. They are reinstated on a branch at Vasser in Vestfold, with a view over the ocean and with the World's End in the background. The last image pair shows the first guests, and the ring has thus reached its end.